COLONIAL SEC. FOR HONGKONG APPOINTED

Trafalgar Sq. Scene

The Secretary of State for the Colonies has announced the appointment of a new Colonial Secretary for Hongkong in succession to Mr J. F. Nicoll, Governor-Designate of Singapore.

Hongkong's new Colonial Secretary is Mr Robert Brown Black, OBE, who is at present Deputy Chief Secretary of the Colony of British North Borneo.

Mr Black is expected to arrive in Hongkong within the next few weeks.

3-Power Warning To Russia

Paris, Jan. 28. Britain, France and the United States today warned the Soviet Union and Communist China that any new aggression in Southeast Asia would be met by an immediate call by the Western Powers for United Nations action.

The warning was made in the main Political Committee debating Nationalist China's complaints that Russia had violated the Sino-Soviet Friendship Treaty of 1945.

Mr Sherman Cooper (United States) declared, "on the instructions of my Government," that "any such Communist aggression in Southeast Asia would be a matter of direct and grave concern which would require the most urgent and earnest consideration by the United Nations."

Mr Cooper had earlier termed as "entirely false and without foundation" Soviet allegations that the United States was transferring Chinese Nationalist troops from Formosa to Western Burma in preparation for an invasion of Communist China.

Mr Selwyn Lloyd (Britain), associating himself with Mr Cooper, said that Russia's accusation had "an ominous ring." They were taken to mean that the Communists might use them as an excuse for their own attacks on Burma and Indo-China.

Mr Lloyd asserted that the Communist charges were "the normal vocabulary of the aggressor" and he expressed the sincere hope that "this does not mean that the Soviet Union has persuaded the Chinese Communists to undertake an aggressive venture in the Far East."—Reuter.

Mr Black, who is 45, was educated at George Watson's College, Edinburgh and at Edinburgh University. He entered the Malayan Civil Service in 1930 and during the next few years held various appointments as District Officer and in the Secretariat.

In 1939 he was seconded to Trinidad as Assistant Colonial Secretary but returned to Malaya in 1940 as Secretary of the Foreign Exchange Control.

From 1942 to 1946 Mr Black was on Military Service—serving quite a lot of the time in prisoner of war camps. He was awarded the MBE (Military) for his wartime service.

He was appointed to North Borneo as Deputy Chief Secretary in 1946 and became an Officer of the Order of the British Empire (Civil Division) in 1949.

ALEXANDER AS DEFENCE CHIEF

London, Jan. 28. Field Marshal Viscount Alexander of Tunis is appointed Minister of Defence in the British Cabinet, it was officially announced here tonight.

The announcement from 10 Downing Street said that Lord Alexander's nomination would become effective on March 1. Until then, the announcement added, Prime Minister Winston Churchill will carry on as Defence Minister.—France-Press.

Ambassador To Be Appointed

London, Jan. 28. A Foreign Office spokesman announced tonight that the British Government planned to appoint in the near future a British Ambassador to the German Federal Government.

The spokesman told the press the move did not conflict in any way with France's decision to name an Ambassador to the Saar.—France-Press.

A paper bag was opened by this charming little visitor in Trafalgar Square, London, recently, and she was immediately besieged on all sides by eager pigeons. — London Express.

US $300,000,000 Aid For UK

FOR RAW MATERIALS, COMPONENTS

Washington, Jan. 28. Mr W. Averell Harriman, director of the Mutual Security Administration, today announced a grant of US$300,000,000 to the United Kingdom to prevent an "extremely serious" situation.

Mr Harriman said the funds allocated to Britain would be used for "raw materials and components." With the brief announcement, Mr Harriman made public two letters by which he informed several Congressional committees of the decision. In them, he reviewed Britain's dollar drain and reported that the United Kingdom had "initiated measures to curtail non-defence imports and domestic civilian demand, and is preparing to take additional measures."

He added: "It is our considered conclusion, however, that these measures cannot alone suffice to meet the present crisis."

After "careful assessment of the situation," he continued, the Mutual Security Agency had decided on a $300,000,000 grant.

"We estimate that if that amount were not made available to the United Kingdom, it would be necessary for the United Kingdom to reduce its defence programme by more than twice as much—raw materials and components will be directly related to the defence programme. It is the government of the United Kingdom has asked to apply the sterling counterpart to maintenance of its defence production programme."

"It seems clear this $300,000,000 will contribute to fulfilment of the military material requirements of mutual defence more effectively in the form contemplated than if the same were to be used to procure military end-items in the United States."

The following is the text of Mr Harriman's announcement: "W. Averell Harriman, director for Mutual Security, announced today the decision to make available to the United Kingdom $300,000,000 of Mutual Security funds to support the United Kingdom defence programme."

"Mr Harriman made known this decision in identical letters to the chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, the Senate Armed Services Committee, the Senate Appropriations Committee, the House Foreign Affairs Committee, the House Armed Services Committee and the House Appropriations Committee. A copy of that letter is attached."

"Also attached is a copy of a letter of January 8 from Mr Harriman to the committee on the background for this action." — United Press.

New Egyptian Premier Announces His Policy

CONFIDENCE VOTE FOR ALY MAHER PASHA

Cairo, Jan. 28.

The new Egyptian Government of Dr Aly Maher Pasha won a unanimous vote of confidence in the Senate and Chamber of Deputies when it faced Parliament for the first time tonight.

The Premier was greeted with loud and prolonged applause by both Houses.

The Legislative Committees of the two Houses of Parliament approved his decrees, under which martial law was proclaimed throughout the country.

Dr Aly Maher Pasha, who is 68, mounted the rostrum to present his Cabinet of Independent Ministers.

"My policy is to achieve the evacuation of British troops and the unity of the Nile Valley," he declared.

"I shall follow the policy dear to all previous Governments."

He called last October 8, when Parliament approved the abrogation of the 1896 Anglo-Egyptian Treaty, "a great and glorious day."

A meeting tonight between the new Premier and Nahas Pasha was cancelled, according to a Waft spokesman. He gave no explanation.

King Farouk's Chief of Cabinet, Hafez Afifi Pasha, was to see Nahas Pasha tonight to persuade him to join the United Front, which Dr Maher Pasha is trying to form in the face of the crisis.

An uproar broke out in the Chamber of Deputies when a deputy, Saad Husein, welcomed the new Government, as coming to "put an end to an era of chaos and anarchy."

This remark unleashed tumultuous shouts of indignation from the Waftist majority.

Maher Pasha took the Oath before King Farouk earlier today and then summoned his first session of Parliament this evening to approve his decree of martial law for the whole country.

Last night he decided to adjourn Parliament for 30 days. The Waftist National Front—now the Opposition—have a large majority in Parliament.

Dr Maher Pasha has chosen an all-independent Cabinet. Observers here are of the opinion that the efforts of the new Premier in foreign affairs would be directed towards a new understanding with Britain.

EX-PREMIER'S APPEAL

Maher Pasha's predecessor, Nahas Pasha, told 20 to 30 young Waftists who demonstrated outside his house in the Garden City today: "Keep calm and do not demonstrate. I have been in touch with the new Premier and he has given me his word of honour that he will uphold my policy towards the British. Waftist Senators and Deputies will vote for him as long as he does so."

He told the young men—who shouted: "We won't recognise your dismissal"—that he had asked King Farouk to relieve him of his office.

Afterwards, Nahas Pasha went to Abdin Palace and informed the Grand Chamberlain that he supported the new Government. "I am so glad that he followed the policy which the previous (Waftist) Government initiated."

Nahas Pasha signed the distinguished visitors' register and requested the Grand Chamberlain to convey to King Farouk his loyalty to the Throne and his hope that "His Majesty's efforts for the welfare of the Nile Valley might be crowned with success."

The Waftist evening newspaper, Al-Balagh, said: "Aly Maher Pasha today called on Nahas Pasha, who expressed his 'fervent hope' that the new Premier's efforts might be crowned with success."

Dr Maher Pasha declared this afternoon that he was confident of achieving his country's "national aims."

He said: "With Allah's help, they would do this, particularly after the assurance of full co-operation. I have received this morning from the outgoing Premier, Nahas Pasha, and his Waftist Party, as well as other political parties, a line of approval for the success of our mission."

FAROUK'S WARNING
The independent Arabic evening newspaper, Al-Zaman, today carried a Waftist newspaper, which gave an account of a warning given by Dr Aly Maher Pasha's appointment, that "he was far from being 'moderate' in the sense in which they understand."

The paper added: "Aly Maher Pasha was the first Egyptian statesman to advocate the abrogation of the Anglo-Egyptian Treaty and is keenly interested in social reform."

"He is also known to be interested in the reinforcement of the Egyptian Army, having been responsible for the formation of the Egyptian territorial forces."

"The political police here were today said to be actively searching for the ringleaders of the 'plot to burn out the city'."

General Muad El Kholy Bey, the Police Commandant, said that they had caught 400 people "red-handed," looting and pillaging in the five-scattered capital during the weekend after Saturday's riots.

Dr Maher Pasha's first act today was to cut the curfew from 12 hours to nine, making it 9 p.m. to 6 a.m.

Loudspeaker vans toured the city to announce this with esoteric words of red-capped Egyptian Air Force police in lorries.

The streets of the capital had been tidied up and Cairo was back at work today after an orgy of destruction. Troops were still out in force in the city.

Maher Pasha, often described as the "Iron Hand" in Egyptian politics, told reporters: "I shall strive to form a United National Front similar to that which negotiated and signed the Anglo-Egyptian Treaty in 1936."

THE NEW FRONT

"The new Front will aim at achieving the evacuation of the British from the Suez Canal Zone and the unity of the Nile Valley."

"All parties will be invited to participate. I hope the Waft will also join in. Nahas Pasha is visiting me tonight and I hope he will approve this idea."

Dr Maher Pasha said that he had already held a series of talks with Ibrahim Abdel Hady Pasha, leader of the Saadist Party, Mohammed Keynal Pasha, President of the Liberal Constitutional Party, as well as other political leaders.

He told his first press conference: "Above all, we must maintain law and order and ensure the security of all inhabitants—I mean Egyptians and foreigners alike."

"Trust the nation and have confidence and faith in its future. No nation has achieved an important place in history without law and order. We rely on the co-operation and goodwill of all citizens."

He concluded with a warning: "There will be no mercy for trouble-makers."—Reuter.

US MOVE EXPECTED

Paris, Jan. 28. A spokesman for the Egyptian United Nations delegation said today that he expected the next move in efforts to settle the Anglo-Egyptian conflict to come from the United States.

Asked at a press conference to indicate what line of approach was likely to materialise, he said: "This must be left to the United States. He declined to confirm that the American Ambassador's visit to King Farouk yesterday had given rise to hope for outright American mediation. He pointed, however, to the new Premier's attitude for evacuation of the Canal Zone and unity of the Nile Valley."

It was the first hint from official Egyptian quarters since the signing of the Anglo-Egyptian conflict that the United States would be accepted as a mediator. The former Foreign Minister, Salah Pasha, who returned to Cairo today, had maintained that the United States was no longer considered a trustworthy or disinterested mediator.

Train Blown Up By Terrorists

Suez Canal Zone, Jan. 28.

Terrorists blew up a British military train today at Kantawa, between Ismailia and Port Said, and four British soldiers were injured, the British authorities announced.

Kantawa is a known terrorist haven approximately midway between the two towns. Reports from the scene said a mine was placed on the track and it exploded under the coach carrying the train escort.

Other troops on the train opened fire on terrorists lying in ambush, killing one and reportedly wounding three.

The train was carrying oil and bulldozers to the southern part of the zone. The blast destroyed 20 yards of track.—United Press.

17 MISSING IN BLAZE

Minneapolis, Jan. 28. Flames that roared through a three-story brick business and apartment building on the edge of Minneapolis early today left 17 persons missing.

Search for victims was held up by shifting of collapsed floors and the roof. Firemen planned to tear down walls and sections of the floors before probing the debris for bodies.

Fire Chief Reynold Malquist said "we're not at all certain how many persons are missing, but I understand 17 persons have not been located."

Red Cross disaster officials cited the same figure. Some 31 persons were driven into sub-zero cold, most of them thinly clad, by the blaze. One of two dogs that raced through the smoke-filled hallways and aroused occupants of the building with their barking, perished when it ran back into the building as its owner fled. The other animal was rescued from the building.—Associated Press.

COMMENT OF THE DAY

Momentous Parliamentary Session

SELDOM has Parliament met, as the House of Commons meets today after the Christmas Recess, with a programme so high in importance and significance demanding immediate attention. There would normally be more than enough in the Chancellor of the Exchequer's report on the sterling area crisis and the specific measures required of the British Isles to enable her to put her foot on the road to recovery. No definite clue has been forthcoming of the nature of the austerity measures envisaged, but enough has been hinted to stir a provocative and controversial debate. The sudden developments in Egypt, not yet guaranteeing that the worst fears will not be realised and the situation get completely out of hand, coupled with expectations of a sharp inspection by the Opposition of the results of Mr Winston Churchill's visit to Washington, promise sessions late into the night for some days to come. Until a further assessment is possible of the permanent effect of King Farouk's dismissal of the Nahas Pasha Cabinet, and the precautionary moves by the British garrison in the Suez Canal Zone, the impact on Parliamentary affairs is not easy to gauge, but the outlook is grim enough for the moment and the fluctuating situation must gain immediate attention of the Cabinet almost to the exclusion of most else. It may be felt, with some reason, that any change in the Egyptian Government can only be for the better. The Waftists had plainly excited anti-British fanaticism to a stage beyond their control and the emergence of a strong man in an attempt to restore the balance can only be welcomed. Whether Aly Maher Pasha, in his appointment as Military Governor-General, as well as Premier fulfil his promise, remains to be tested, but it falls into line with British insistence that a compromise settlement is impossible until officially-inspired terrorism ends. Britain's other battle—the restoration of financial stability—will provide the topic of main debate for the next two days. Mr R. A. Butler is not expected to mince words in his review of the gravity of the problem. Further measures to close the gap between the sterling area's overseas receipts and expenditure, inevitably will cause a certain measure of dismay in the most affected spheres. But Britain has won many a battle in her national history—and is not likely to lose this fight for the pound. It is for the Chancellor to direct the operation, but all in Britain can help—and not only by loyally accepting his measures. If the country is going to stand on its own feet—Mr Churchill's assurance in Washington—the day-by-day week-by-week rise in prices must be stopped. And it means a back-to-it national spirit, very similar to the inspiring wartime spirit, to stop it. In that sense, nothing has been more reassuring than the attitude of the Trades Union Congress, in getting behind the drive for a large-scale switch of manpower, diversion from luxury trades to the arms and exporting factories. The trend of the debate in Parliament on this vital issue will be awaited with the keenest interest—and, almost certainly, with results giving confidence.

Britain—more than any other country, can put more into a small car.

BLAZE GUTS ARMY RADIO STATION

DESTRUCTION OF EQUIPMENT

Nicosia, Jan. 27.
Fire early today completely gutted the British forces' broadcasting station at Lakatamia, four miles south of here. The transmitters were saved.

The station commander hopes to be able to start some kind of service in the near future if studio equipment, including BBC relay equipment, can be replaced.

The buildings and broadcasting equipment with the equipment in them were completely destroyed. Villagers next to the station raised the alarm early today by ringing their church bells and summoning the fire engines.

The police are investigating the cause of the fire which is still unknown. The station serves the British garrison in Cyprus, which is now providing reinforcements for the Suez Canal Zone.

The British staff of the station were in the building when the alarm was raised. They escaped unhurt.

VILLAGERS HELP

The forces' broadcasting station started functioning here in April, 1948, when it was transferred from Palestine before the end of the British mandate there.

It broadcast more than 12 hours daily for the entertainment of troops stationed in Cyprus. It was also very popular with Cypriots because of a 45-minute programme daily for the Cyprus public generally.

The station commander said that the station was not broadcasting at the time the fire broke out around 5.00 a.m. here. There was no electric power anywhere.

He paid tribute to Cypriot villagers who rushed in to help and salvaged anything possible from the blaze, including a piano.—Reuter.

Death Of Mongolian Premier

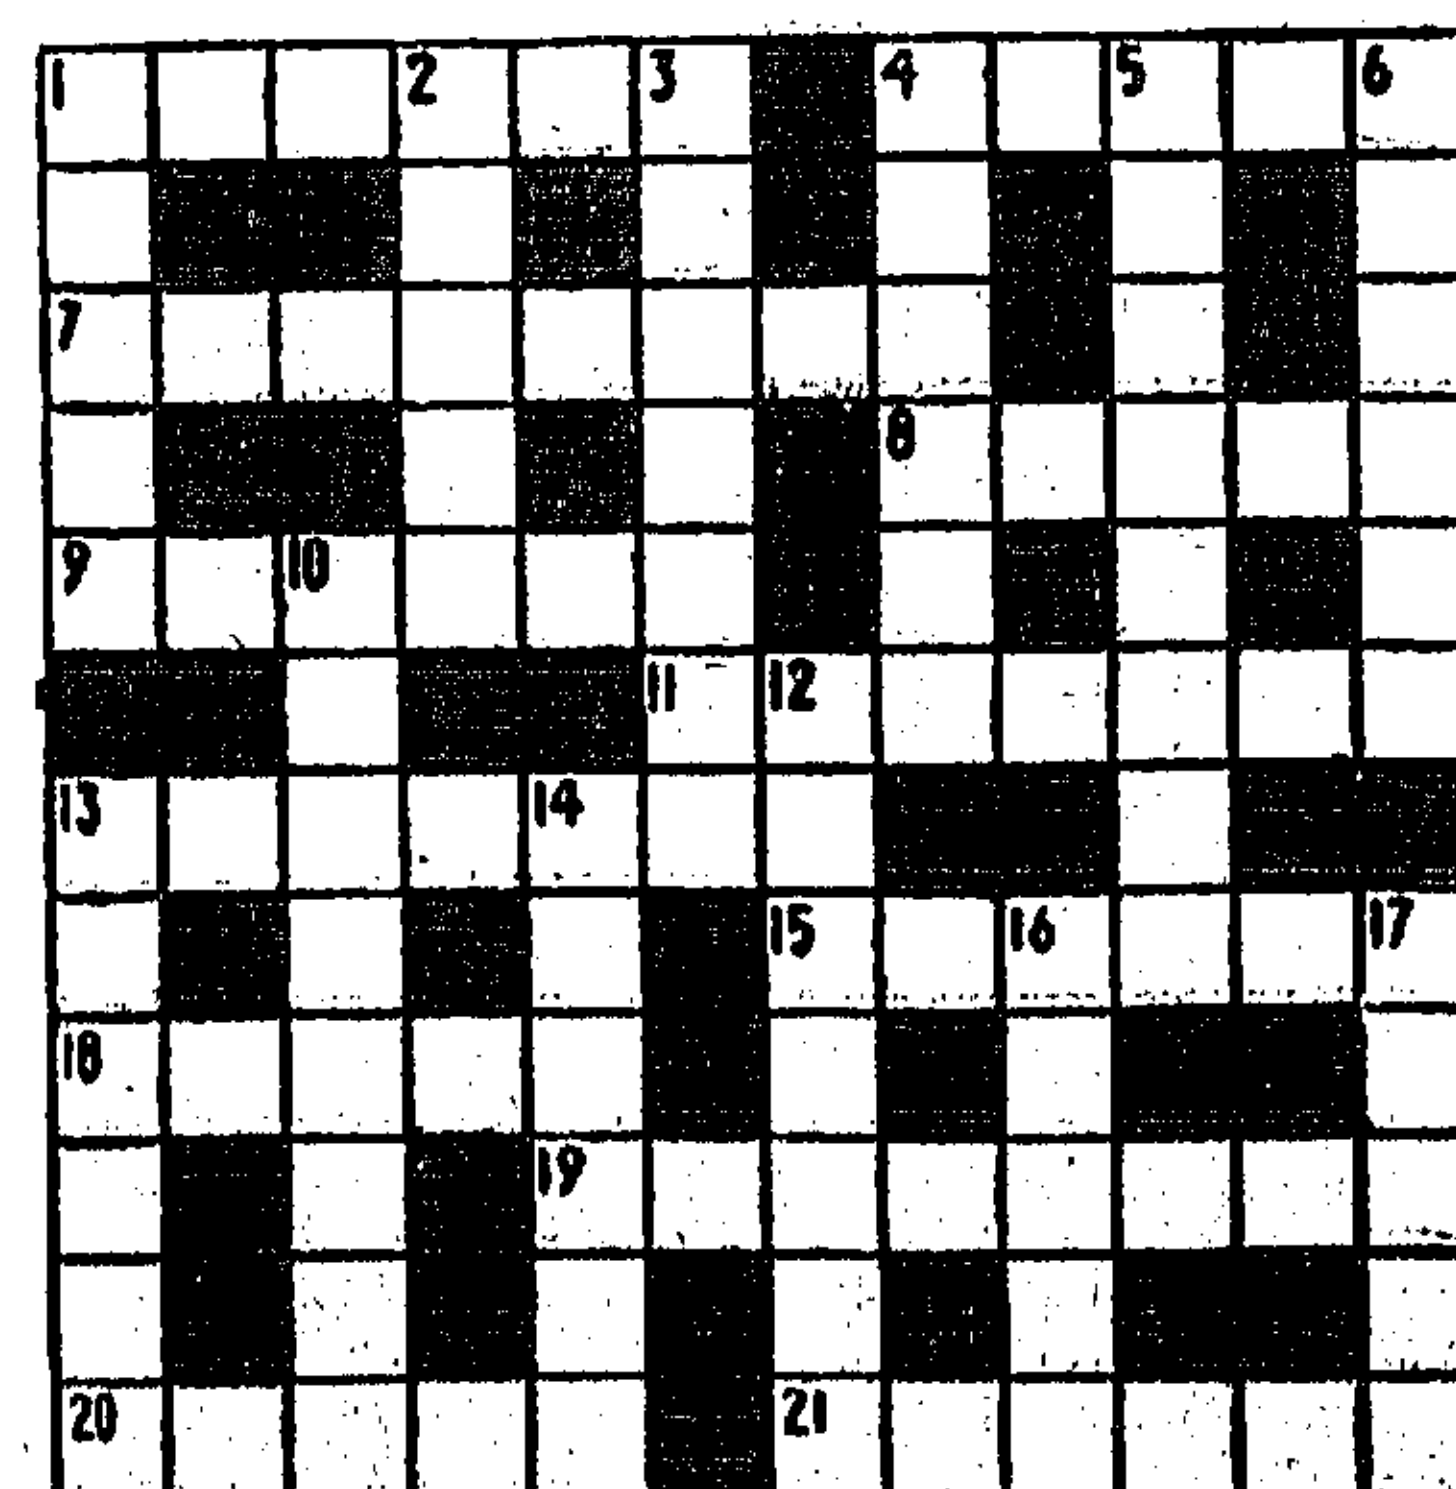

Moscow, Jan. 28.
Premier Marshal Chubalsan of the Mongolian People's Republic (Outer Mongolia) died in the Kremlin hospital in Moscow on Saturday. It was announced today. Death was said to be the result of a kidney cancer.

The Council of Ministers of the USSR issued a communique in which they called Chubalsan "a true friend of the Soviet Union."

A statement released by the Soviet news agency Tass said Chubalsan had been ill for a number of years. It said Marshal Chubalsan arrived in Moscow on January 14 and was put in hospital.

"Examination of the patient showed Marshal Chubalsan's state of health demanded an immediate operation. With the agreement of the patient and his relatives and friends, the operation was carried out which unfortunately did not give positive results."—Associated Press.

BUS FIRE HORROR

Puebla, Mexico, Jan. 28.
Forty-four were burned to death today when two petrol tanks exploded inside a crowded bus. Only the driver was known to have escaped death in the crash near Atlisco on the Pan-American highway about 20 miles southwest of here.

The police blamed the driver, Gilgardo H. Clara, for the explosion. They said he admitted tossing a lighted match near the 50-litre cans stowed in the aisle of the bus.

The tanks exploded throwing sheets of flaming petrol on the passengers. The driver fled to safety through the window just before the bus ran into a tree. All the passengers, including three children, were trapped by the flames blocking the only exit.

BONN WANTS NATO MEMBERSHIP

Bombshell At Paris Meeting Demand Shocks Conference Discussing European Army

Paris, Jan. 27.

West Germany tonight asked for immediate membership of NATO at the European Army conference here.

Professor Walter Hallstein, West German Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, made the request when the Foreign Ministers of France, Italy and the three Benelux countries were discussing the European Army's future relations with NATO.

Professor Hallstein said he realised that there would be considerable difficulties in obtaining immediate membership, and therefore alternative suggestions he had in mind included, firstly, a postponement of German admission and, secondly, the representation of European army countries as a united body in NATO.

Professor Hallstein thought that very probably one more conference at a still undetermined date might be necessary.

Professor Hallstein's move rocked the delegates, already upset by new developments in the long-standing quarrel between France and Germany over the rich coal-mining Saar Valley.

Just prior to Professor Hallstein's statement, the Ministers had speeded up their efforts to draft a European army treaty in time to submit it to a NATO conference opening on February 16 in Lisbon.

As the Belgian Foreign Minister, Paul van Zeeland, fought a bitter rearguard action against possible loss of national sovereignty, the Ministers agreed on some secondary aspects of the new international organisation which will operate the combined army.

But Professor Hallstein's demand halted the conference. The French Foreign Minister, Robert Schuman, asked an adjournment to study the situation and prepare an answer. Other Ministers agreed.

DEMANDS EQUALITY

Professor Hallstein said the German people and Parliament never would accept any discrimination between their country and others in the projected European defence community—Belgium, France, Italy, Luxembourg and the Netherlands.

There could be no such community, he said, according to French officials who were present at the closed sessions, if Germany was not also a member of NATO on an equal footing.

This was a reference to the fact that the other five members of the proposed European army are NATO members. The other NATO members are Britain, the United States, Canada, Iceland, Norway, Denmark and Portugal.

Greece and Turkey have been nominated to membership, but not yet fully accepted. The German diplomat conceded that immediate German membership would be a difficult political task in some countries—notably France, where fear and hatred of Germany still are strong. He offered two compromise solutions:

1—The six-member European defence community to become one member of NATO, with the five present NATO members dropping out as individual members.

2—The five States to retain individual NATO memberships, but all NATO decisions affecting Europe to be subject to unanimous approval of the Ministerial Committee of the proposed army organisation.

Either idea would give Germany a full voice in NATO affairs. Herr Hallstein said Germany would submit precise proposals on his ideas to the conference before it winds up.

NOT DISCUSSED

It was learned from conference sources that the German request for the admission of Germany to NATO was not discussed at the conference.

A conference spokesman tonight announced that the conference nations had today reached agreement on four main points of their nine-point agenda, leaving three more still to be settled.

Agreement was reached on a complicated French proposal whereby the European Army Council of Ministers shall take decisions on the most vital issues unanimously, on less important ones by a two-thirds majority and on minor issues by a simple majority. In the event of a three-to-three tie, the votes of those three countries providing two-thirds of the effort in men, money and armaments would prevail.

A long list of questions on which the two-thirds and simple majority rules would apply was being drawn up.

It was also agreed that there be one court of justice to decide disputes. This is to be the same court as for the coal and steel pool.

After the conference ended a spokesman said that the experts hoped to have a preliminary standing committee within a few days. There is no certain

ANOTHER SHOCK

Bonn, Jan. 27.
The West German Chancellor, Dr. Konrad Adenauer, will not agree to a German contribution to Western European defence before the Saar question is solved, an official spokesman announced here today.

The spokesman said that the appointment of M. Gilbert Grandval as the French Ambassador in Saarbrücken "worried" political circles in West Germany.

It was doubtful whether the Parliamentary debate on West Germany's defence contribution, scheduled for February 7 and 8, could be held, he said.

Professor Walter Hallstein, Secretary of State in the Foreign Office, this morning reported from Paris that the reasons given by the French Government for appointing M. Grandval were not satisfactory, the spokesman said.

Dr. Adenauer today instructed Professor Hallstein to ask the French Government for clear statements. The German Government called M. Grandval's appointment "surprising." The Social Democratic Opposition said that it was "unbearable."

"A BOMBHELL"

In Paris, a French official described the announcement as a "bombshell from Bonn".

A French Foreign Office spokesman said that the decision to change the status of the French representative in the Saar from that of High Commissioner to Ambassador was taken last March.

The decision and the reason for it were made public at the time, he said.

The spokesman said that since the Saar had an autonomous government the need for a High Commissioner had ceased and it was perfectly normal that he should be replaced by an Ambassador.

This, he said, implied no change in French policy. Like Britain and America, France was maintaining her attitude that the definitive status of the Saar territory would be decided in the peace treaty with Germany.

The spokesman refused to comment directly on today's German declaration.—Reuter.

Empire Tribunal Advocated By British Minister

Birmingham, Jan. 27.

The Minister of State for the Colonies, Mr Alan Lennox-Boyd, has suggested the establishment of a tribunal to which Commonwealth countries could take their differences.

Speaking at a banquet of the British Jewellers' Association here last night, he said: "I know a number of my friends in the Labour Party share my view that it is a great pity that on the morrow of victory six years ago we did not call a great Empire conference to cover the whole field of Empire affairs."

"It might then have been possible not to have had the various disintegrating tendencies of recent years," he said.

"I do not see why, even now, we should not have a new type of Commonwealth tribunal to which all members of the British Empire can send representatives and which could meet from time to time in different capitals of the Empire to draw our people together with their common legal and humane heritage, and probably settling the differences which may from time to time arise between one member of the British Empire and another," he added.

On Malaya, he said, that British troops, planters and miners were "delivering the goods for the salvation of the Sterling Area throughout the world."

They were earning not far short of $400 million a year in conditions that taxed every physical and mental nerve.

TREMENDOUS COST

Mr Lennox-Boyd said that there were 100,000 armed men fighting in Malaya, including armed police. In addition to the burden on Malaya, this was costing Britain £50 million a year.

"I was lately in Malaya and I saw something of the courage of all those troops and of the planters and tin miners and their families in appalling difficulties," he said.

"As I saw it there, the task became easy or difficult according to the way outside Malaya the war with militant Communism was being pursued."

"When there were successes in Korea, you had no difficulty in getting information in Malaya, but when there were difficulties in Korea, the sources of information in Malaya shut up."

"With success against Communism in Korea, we gained control in Malaya but with difficulties in Korea we temporarily lost control."

SELF-GOVERNMENT

Mr Lennox-Boyd said that the four-power defence offer to Egypt would have given the Egyptians a full and equal part in the defence of the Canal Zone.

Referring to the discussions about the future of Nyasaland and Northern and Southern Rhodesia, Mr Lennox-Boyd said it was hoped to have a London conference of representatives of the three territories this year.

"It is the view of the Government that a federation is highly desirable with the creation of a great British State in Central Africa," he added.

"Self-government in the Empire" was the eventual aim of the Conservative Government, but it was his view that it should be given in stages, he said.—Reuter.

NEW COUP BY 'LADDER GANG'

London, Jan. 28.
Britain's "Ladder Gang" struck again last night, swiftly and silently, rifling a wealthy country home and escaping with £6,000 in jewellery.

The gang, believed to be disposing their loot through a central receiver in London, have got away with over £60,000 worth of furs and jewellery since November in raids on rich homes within about 70 miles of the capital.

The police, tackling this most expert crime wave of recent years, are puzzled how the thieves always know which room is most likely to provide the biggest haul.

They strike quickly and correctly, every time going straight to the right room. One possibility is that they work to television programmes. They keep watch on a house during the hour or so before the television begins, noting which lights go on and off upstairs.

They also watch for the arrival of guests in fur coats and judging from the subsequent switching of lights where they are leaving them.—Reuter.

Democracy Preferred To Bullets

Calcutta, Jan. 22.
Nepal's King Tribhuvana appealed to his people tonight to use democracy instead of bullets if they want changes made in their newly-formed government.

He referred to last week's abortive revolt in the capital at Kathmandu which had the support of Communists.

Kathmandu was reported quiet but there was concern that the rebellion might break out in some other part of the Himalayan buffer State between India and Red-held Tibet.

The leader of the ill-fated, almost bloodless, revolt last Tuesday and Wednesday—Dr. K. J. Singh—still is at large.

King Tribhuvana recently was made a constitutional monarch. Instead of a mere figure-head ruler—with the help of India's Prime Minister, Jawaharlal Nehru, Dr. Singh's followers broke away from the Catholic Party which has the support of Nepal's ruling All-India Congress Party. Singh declared the new Government was a puppet of India.—Associated Press.

—the Rolex Oyster Perpetual, although it winds itself, was primarily developed because a self-wound watch is more accurate than a hand-wound watch. The tension on the mainspring is much more constant, much more even.

ROLEX

The Rolex Red Seal means that the watch to which it is attached has passed the tests of the Swiss Government Testing Stations and has been awarded its own Official Timing Certificate.

ZOOT SUITS—with jackets three inches above the knee and trouser cuff narrowed down to as little as four inches. In the background the whirling dancers and frantic musicians. In the foreground no stronger stimulant, apparently, than cups of tea and mineral waters. On display—the inevitable record-collection of jazz classics.

Robb draws the kind of scene where reefer-smoking flourishes. It is not, however, in the dance room itself where the "junkies" go to "be on the kick," but in the corridors and stairways and the cloakroom upstairs.

Between the wars the East End was the centre of London's traffic. But today the Home Office reports show that opium smoking, once a problem in dockland is now almost dead.

The new land of mists and clouded make-believe is up West, where the neon signs flash and the juke boxes blare.

In one of the clubs I watched a crowd of more than 100 dancing in a cellar which would have been a close fit for 20. The heat was tropical. Proportion of white to coloured, 60-40. At another jazz club near by I met Johnny, only 25, but already with one sentence behind him for reefer smoking. He said he was a drummer and started using reefer because all the other fellows in the band did.

At first he smoked twice a month. It slid into once a week, then every day. In prison he did without it for ten months. His first day out a friend gave him a reefer. He smoked it.

"I'm a musician" he said. "In my world we need a lift. So many people use the stuff. You've got to be hep—or else."

Italy

ITALY—it is angrily admitted by Signor Giovan Battista Migliori, Government High Commissioner for Health—is not merely a country in which dope is traded. It is, in fact, European "general staff headquarters" of almost all international drug gangs. It is no mere chance that two of America's biggest dope racketeers, "Lucky" Luciano and "Black Tony" (alias Antonio Parmigiani) are Italians.

The three great Italian ports, Naples, Genoa, and Trieste are key points in the world-wide illegal drug business. From the East heroin, morphia, opium, and cocaine enter Europe here and are then "processed" in this country by people who can afford to live in unbelievable luxury in Milan palaces.

The drugs then continue their secret journey to French ports or Liverpool and Plymouth. And to America, where they earn the most money.

Hugo Kuranda

Germany

FOUR thousand cases of drug taking were investigated by police in Germany's three Western Zones during the past year, and the rapid rise is alarming both the German and Allied authorities. There are, in fact, ten times as many drug addicts now as during and after the war.

What is really worrying the authorities, however, is that West Germany is becoming a vast funneling area through which drugs are being smuggled out of the Soviet Zone and the other Russian satellites into the Western world.

The enormous proceeds of this trade—in hard Western currencies—are being used to finance the work of Communist agents in Europe and America. Holland and Belgium are the two countries from which most of the drugs are then passed on or sold locally. Some even come into Western Europe from Turkey via the Soviet Zone of Germany.

There are relatively few teenage drug-takers in Germany. Most addicts are older people who use drugs to escape from a dreary everyday world or from the effects of illness.

Wehrmacht doctors and former medical orderlies who started to take drugs during the war are some of the worst addicts.

Mothers Have No Time, Eh?

From R. M. MacCALL

WASHINGTON.

THE glitteringly successful career-woman is a typical part of the American scene.

Pretty, vital, 38-year-old Dr Vivienne Koch lives in Washington with her husband, Lawrence Kegan, a high Government official.

She has young twins. Every Wednesday up she goes to New York, where she is a professor of philosophy at the New York University, teaching there until the Friday evening return to her Washington home.

In 1950 she had a non-fiction, best-seller published. She is working on another book, "American Thinkers."

She has just been appointed "Co-ordinator of the Programme of Humanities" at the university's adult education centre.

And she says firmly: "Mothers shouldn't wrap themselves up in their children to the point where they smother the youngsters and stultify themselves. Mothers have no time for outside interests? Pooh!"

POLICEMAN Archie Dillon, of Adel, Iowa, is a crack shot. But nobody expected the bullet which suddenly exploded out of the bowl of the pipe he was quietly smoking, and tore through the ceiling. Explanation: "I must have mixed up the bullet with my tobacco when I was hunting."

IN WHEELING, West Virginia, police hastily seized 50 "subversive" automatic machines. For, along with chocolate they were delivering tiny hammer- and sickle emblems and cards about idyllic life in Russia.

NEW ANGLE on all those income tax stories. The Internal Revenue Bureau is trying to trace a million and a half elusive taxpayers. It wants to pay them $15,000,000 in refunds.

COLLEAGUE Henry Lowrie, settling into a newly built Washington flat, was intrigued to find in the living-room a switch marked "Personal comfort." It turns out to be the temperature regulator.

IN PHOENIX, Arizona, George Ridgeway, superintendent of the State Industrial school for boys, says: "I take all the blame," following allegations of cruel treatment. Among the charges: That delinquent boys were made to march barefoot for 30 miles across the cactus-sprouting desert.

IN a British Embassy corridor one morning Mr Churchill encountered Mr Eden's private secretary, his arms full of official papers. "Anything in those I ought to see?" asked the Prime Minister.

"No, sir, I don't think so." "Well, then," pursued Mr Churchill, "is there anything in those I ought not to see?"

THERE IS an uproar in Buck Hill Falls, Pennsylvania. Churchmen are protesting against a film entitled: "Are You Ready For Service?"

It is to be shown in schools and is supposed to help youngsters "orientate" themselves for call-up. "Just like Red propaganda," say the ministers.

THE New York Daily News publishes an exclusive story quoting a close personal friend of Eisenhower. He says that if the general is elected President he will keep taxes at their present rates, but will slash Government spending by anything from 4,000 million to 8,000 million dollars a year.

A HIGH American official asked Mr Churchill: "Why did you not bring Mr Butler, the Chancellor of the Exchequer?"

Replied the Premier: "The task of the Chancellor is to stay at home and collect all the taxes."

In The Steps Of Truman's Grandmother

By KAY MURRAY

NEW YORK.
PRESIDENT TRUMAN recently electrified the 48 members of the Defence Advisory Committee on Women in the Armed Services with a little family history.

"In the late 1840s and early 1850s," said the mild, bespectacled ex-haberdasher, "my grandmothers were first settlers in western Missouri, and they had trouble with Indians at that time... My red-haired grandmother, on one occasion, routed a whole band of Indians by herself and two great big shepherd dogs, and they didn't come back and bother her any more."

The President proffered this bit of homespun history in aid of the big new recruiting drive for the women's armed services in the U.S. which while not calling upon their members to do anything as spectacular as holding Indians at bay, still offer them a chance of doing a big job for their country.

If Mr Truman's red-haired grandmother had visited Times Square the other day when Assistant Secretary for Defence Anna M. Rosenberg opened a new women's recruiting centre there, she might have been a little at sea in the garish environment.

But she could not have failed to recognise a kindred fighting spirit in Mr Truman's elegant, energetic Assistant Secretary, red-haired if not redhaired. I waylaid Madame Secretary before she went before the battery of loudspeakers and asked her about the 600 WACs who, it has been announced, are to be despatched to Korea—the first detachment to be assigned to that theatre.

"Gen. Ridgway himself asked for them," said Mrs Rosenberg, who was living up to her reputation as the Government's best-dressed woman.

"What kind of jobs will they do there?" I asked. "Every kind," said Madame Secretary, waving her hands energetically. "Every kind of job that will release a man."

At the last count there were 20,534 enlisted women and 2,438 officers in the nine women's services.

The current recruiting drive aims at getting 72,000 more in the women's services by next July. To the girl who signs up with Uncle Sam there are about 500 jobs open, varying from using an adding machine to high level stuff with electronics. The Women's Army Corps is of course the largest service. "These girls take themselves seriously—they have to, for they realise that the Army isn't entirely sold on the idea of women soldiers yet, though the present pace of defence organisation is likely to alter that."

For that reason the raw recruit doesn't balk at such trials as basic training which, though not so long, is much the same as that meted out to the men.

The women have snappy new uniforms ranging from "walking out" to "exercise dress," dreamed up by top-flight fashion designer Hattie Carnegie, and three pairs of nylon and a smart shoulder-bag of polished calf are standard equipment. High heeled pumps, while not general issue, are regarded leniently for off-duty periods.

In most training camps and on army posts the girls eat in the same mess as the men, and there are no separate restrooms about. Basic pay is the same as for men—$25 a month.

In spite of these inducements it is by no means sure that the armed services will sign up their 72,000th recruit before next July.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Not Many Make Proper Play Here

By OSWALD JACOBY

NINETY-NINE players out of a hundred would go wrong with the South cards in the hand shown today. Half of these ninety-nine South players would be rescued by a mistake on East's part. (That makes forty-four and a half bridge players, to be sure. The half bridge player has been my partner hundreds of times.)

When West opens the four of diamonds, the ninety-nine Souths play the four of diamonds. From dummy, half of them are saved when East covers with the queen. South can now win with the king, cash the ace and king of clubs, and get to dummy with the jack of diamonds to win a trick with the queen of clubs.

Half of those poor South players find themselves in trouble when East plays the six of diamonds. From dummy's ten, dummy is in the lead at this time but will never be as the lead again. It is impossible to cash the queen of clubs because the ace and king are still in the South hand. Without the queen of clubs there are only eight tricks.

One South out of a hundred makes the sure-fire play at the first trick. He plays the low diamond from dummy, leaving both the jack and the ten there for later use. East plays the six of diamonds if he is a mind reader, but South wins with the king no matter what East does. The important point is to leave both the jack and the ten in the dummy, with two small diamonds in the South hand.

Having won the first trick with the king of diamonds, South gets the ace and king of clubs out of the king. Now he can lead a low diamond to dummy's ten. Either the ten or the jack of diamonds is bound to win a trick, allowing dummy to cash the queen of clubs. By this line of play, nine tricks are as good as ice.

CARD SENSE

Q—The bidding has been: East, South, West, North, 1 N.T. Pass, 3 N.T. Pass. You, South, hold: Spades Q-7-6, Hearts K-4, Diamonds Q-7-6, Clubs A-2. What do you lead?

A—Lead the ten of spades. You own long suit, of course, to lead your own long suit. The correct card to lead from a suit headed by Q-10-9 is the ten.

TODAY'S QUESTION

The bidding is the same as in the question just asked. You, South, hold: Spades Q-10-7-6, Hearts J-4, Diamonds Q-7-6, Clubs A-2. What do you lead?

THE BIG SHOTS

By T. O. HARE

MESSESS LION, Antelope, Gnu and Hippo were shooting big game. "Let's have a competitive shoot," suggested Lion. "Five points for a lion, four for an antelope, three for a gnu, two for a hippo. The highest score in points wins. The others agreed with enthusiasm."

Each member of the party scored the same number of points; none shot more than three beasts. No two beasts were identical, and no beast was shot by its own name.

What beasts were "beasted" by the hunters?

YESTERDAY at Wagging Parva an important experiment was carried out. Working on a theory that a rocket driven by a steam generator with a pressure of 1,800 lb. per square inch could dispense with riveted drums and top pallets—(by the old system of adiabatic expansion, condensation was too rapid)

Stratolimus relied on compression to retard expansion and produce dry instead of wet steam.

Unfortunately, an assistant named Waverley turned the isothermal screw backwards instead of forwards, with the unexpected result that the generators burst into a thousand smithereens.

HEAD that the Chief of a tribe in the Belgian Congo has 250 wives. His name is Bopé Mababain, and I have reason to believe that he is a very good fellow.

He has a very good reason for his many wives. "Mrs. Bopé Mababain," and so on 250 times. The Chief himself is said not to have any of them. Doubtless, hostesses are used to saying to him, "May I introduce you to your wife?" or "I don't think you've met this wife of mine. But it is likely your greatest success will come when you learn to use your intuitive genius in conjunction with the practical, scientific approach to problems. Your natural capabilities and originality of thought may give you the impulse to figure out a new method of philosophy that can influence the entire world."

FROM time to time I read in the papers complaints that waiters in restaurants are growing more and more insolent. One of them apparently flung down a plate the other day and said, "Dip your way through this." Yet who can blame waiters if they have a healthy contempt for what they are forced to do? The thing to do is to send for the proprietor and kick up a row. The next best thing is to send for the proprietor and kick up a row. Off on a World-wide, One-woman

Fashion Show

HEADED for nine of the world's famous cities, model Barbara Goulen—flew off with £1,500 worth of dresses on a unique one-woman mannequin show that takes her across the world. Her route: New York, San Francisco, Honolulu, Melbourne, Auckland.

Barbara is the sole star of each dress show; she wears all the 21 outfits herself, makes each change in an average two minutes flat including the shoes and hats.

The tricks of a quick change, she says, are these: Wear all the straight-skirted dresses together, and then all the full-skirted ones together. They each need one sort of accessories. Have them all laid out in order. And have a very short, very simple haircut—then even the dresses that go on over your head won't make you untidy.

Clothes in the world parade vary from cheap cotton jeans to a £120 suit. Materials are the new British spring fabrics (silk, tweed, voiles, nylons, sheers, cottons, and a new double-cloth which is satin faced with net) which have already been picked by the six top Paris designers and three London designers for the spring collections.

IF YOU SLEEP—

AT LAST a bright idea on one of the oldest chores in the world—making a bed. Here for once is a labour-saving idea that does not take twice the time and trouble to work. The idea of a shaped sheet fitted drumtight over the mattress.

The trick: all four corners of the bottom sheet are darted to fit the mattress as closely as a slip cover fits a chair.

Farewell to ever to the sharp ridges digging in your back, to the deadly draught on your toes. Farewell to some of the bore of folding under, pulling tight, and tucking in. I give the idea the Anne Edwards guarantee.

Luxury P.S.: You can get them in Britain—made to order in striped pink and white, lemon and white, or blue and white cotton—for 17 guineas.

Not-So-Luxury P.P.S.: You can make them yourself from the sheets you have.

AKADEMISK BOLDKLUBBEN LIVE UP TO REPUTATION WITH TWO 3-0 VICTORIES

By "SPIV"

The Danish Akademisk Boldklubben of Copenhagen fully lived up to their reputation as the best soccer team that has visited Hongkong during the post-war years.

Sunday they opened their Hongkong tour with a convincing 3-0 win over the Combined Hongkong XI and yesterday, they chalked up the same score against the Hongkong Selection side.

In both matches, the Danes did not appear to go all out in their goal-scoring attempts, ensing off after taking a substantial 2-0 first-half lead, and it was not much the margin of their two wins, as the actual superb display given by them that earned them this general opinion of the more than 20,000 spectators who watched these two games.

Most conspicuous feature of the visitors' play was their ability to make the ball rather than the player do all the work by their good positioning and accurate low passes. As expected, the Danish defence with a full array of international stars presented to the Hongkong teams an almost impenetrable barrier.

Every one of them in the first match distinctly showed class in their play, whether in tackling or feeding, but more especially in their positioning which enabled them to completely cover their respective opponents. The three halves showed amazing speed in their covering up and there were many occasions during the two matches, when the local forwards with seemingly an open goal in front of them found themselves bundled off the ball by a lightning cross tackle by the Danish halves.

The only non-international in the Danish defence in the first match, goalkeeper Andersen went through the match with flying colours, giving a grand all-round exhibition between the sticks, and climaxing his brilliant performance with one of the most spectacular saves ever seen on the local field. The spontaneous burst of applause from all sections of the crowd lasted fully one minute at this point. A good swinging movement with the ball from left-wing to right-right then to right wing ended in a high centre back to an unmarked Ho Ying-fan in front of the goal-mouth. He met the ball with a perfect header, which caught the goalie on the side and the goal-mouth. Andersen made a full upward dive for the ball and held it with one hand just as it was about to cross the goal line.

Another noticeable feature of the Danish defence play, was their ability to switch over to an attacking off-side game, or to a zone defence in front of the goal-mouth when hard pressed. On many occasions it looked as if the Hongkong forwards were very much out of luck as their shots came and again hit one of the other of the defenders, but the systematic formation of the Danes in front of the goal-mouth was largely responsible for these deflections of the ball and their inability to get within point-blank range.

The Danish forward line in the first match proved to be almost at par with their formidable defence. Shining star among them was Knud Lundberg, hero of many international matches, the tall and lanky Lundberg was the strategist of the attack and again providing goal scoring opening to the other forwards. His unselfish play, and the rapidity with which he made every pass, and his excellent ball control were lessons well worth learnt by local forwards. Inside right, Frank Rechendorff provided the dash, speed and main shooting power of the forward line, while both wings were not only fast and tricky but also packed a powerful kick in either foot.

The Danes fielded a much weaker team in the second match, making no less than six changes. International goalkeeper Kai Jensen maintained his reputation as perhaps the best goalkeeper in Denmark today, with the number of saves he made and his sure handling of the ball. Dan Ohlsson Andersen proved to be just as adept in the centre-half position in place of Brogger who was slightly injured in the first match, and Henrik Hansen, right-half, though not up to the class of Andersen, in his ball control and experience was not far behind in other respects.

The forward line saw three new faces including that of another student Owen Bæverfjord, who moved into the left-wing. Without Lundberg, Ronvang and Rechendorff, they did not appear to function together as smoothly as in the Combined Hongkong Selection XI. The entry of Lundberg into the game in the 30th minute of play made all the difference, bringing to the Danes two quick goals before the interval came.

Both the Hongkong teams put up a more than creditable display against the visitors and if they did not win, it was just because their opponents were that class superior to them. Gammon was not at his best, and after conceding two goals gave way to Cheung Koon-hing who acquitted himself with flying colours. During the remaining three quarters of the game he conceded only one goal and made at least half a dozen saves. Tenucci seemed to be bothered by his knee injury and was not seen at his best, but on the whole the Combined Hongkong defence put up a more than average form. The forwards could not be said to combine well, though there was no lack of effort on their part. There was a tendency of every forward to go for the goal, one of the ball too much instead of making the ball traverse the distance. Faster positioning by the receiving forwards and cultivation of the habit of quickly parting with the ball should produce greater improvement. Szeto Man struck a bad day, but both Ho Ying-fan and Lee Tai-fai were game triers. Wilson was unlucky to mistake on three occasions when presented with golden opportunities of scoring but did send in a number of good shots at goal only to find goalkeeper Andersen ready for them.

A most regrettable feature of yesterday's game was the inability of several of the originally chosen players to turn up for the match. The Kam-hung substituted for Soong Ling-sing at centre-half, and Bray for King Loksang. Yorke replaced Hau Yung-sang at right-back in the second half. Crookes in his most spectacular way gave a good account of himself at goal and made a number of good saves. All the three goals that went past him could not have been stopped.

Hau Yung-sang and Chan Kar-sau withstood the Danish forwards for almost 30 minutes before giving way, but pick of the Hongkong Selection team yesterday was undoubtedly right-half Tang Sun who gave one of his best performances this season. The forwards yesterday gave the Danish team a slightly harder time than those on Sunday, but lacked the accurate ball-control shown by their visitors. Practically every one of them had at least one good opportunity of obtaining the honour of scoring the first goal against the Danes, but was prevented from doing so by either control of the ball.

After the players of both teams had been presented by the Acting Mayor, President of the Hongkong Football Association, the match started with Hongkong kicking off against the Police end. There was one change in the Hongkong team, Wilson coming in at inside-left in place of Miller.

The Danes soon got into their stride and opened the scoring in the 7th minute. Inside-right Rechendorff took a long shot off a right-wing pass, but his shot was blocked by Tenucci. Snapping the rebound, Rechendorff drove in a rising shot from a 25-yard distance into the top far corner of the net.

Hongkong had another period in front of the Danish goal-mouth, until Etheridge took a long shot which went wide. In the 17th minute the Danes increased their lead through centre-forward Jensen. Jensen snapped a pass almost along the goal-line from right-wing Ronvang, and found the net with a rising shot almost parallel to the goalmouth.

The Danes' third and last goal came in the 17th minute of the second half from a corner-kick. It was a low shot to the near end of the goalmouth, which found Rechendorff unmarked. The inside-right first-timer to hit the lower far corner of the net.

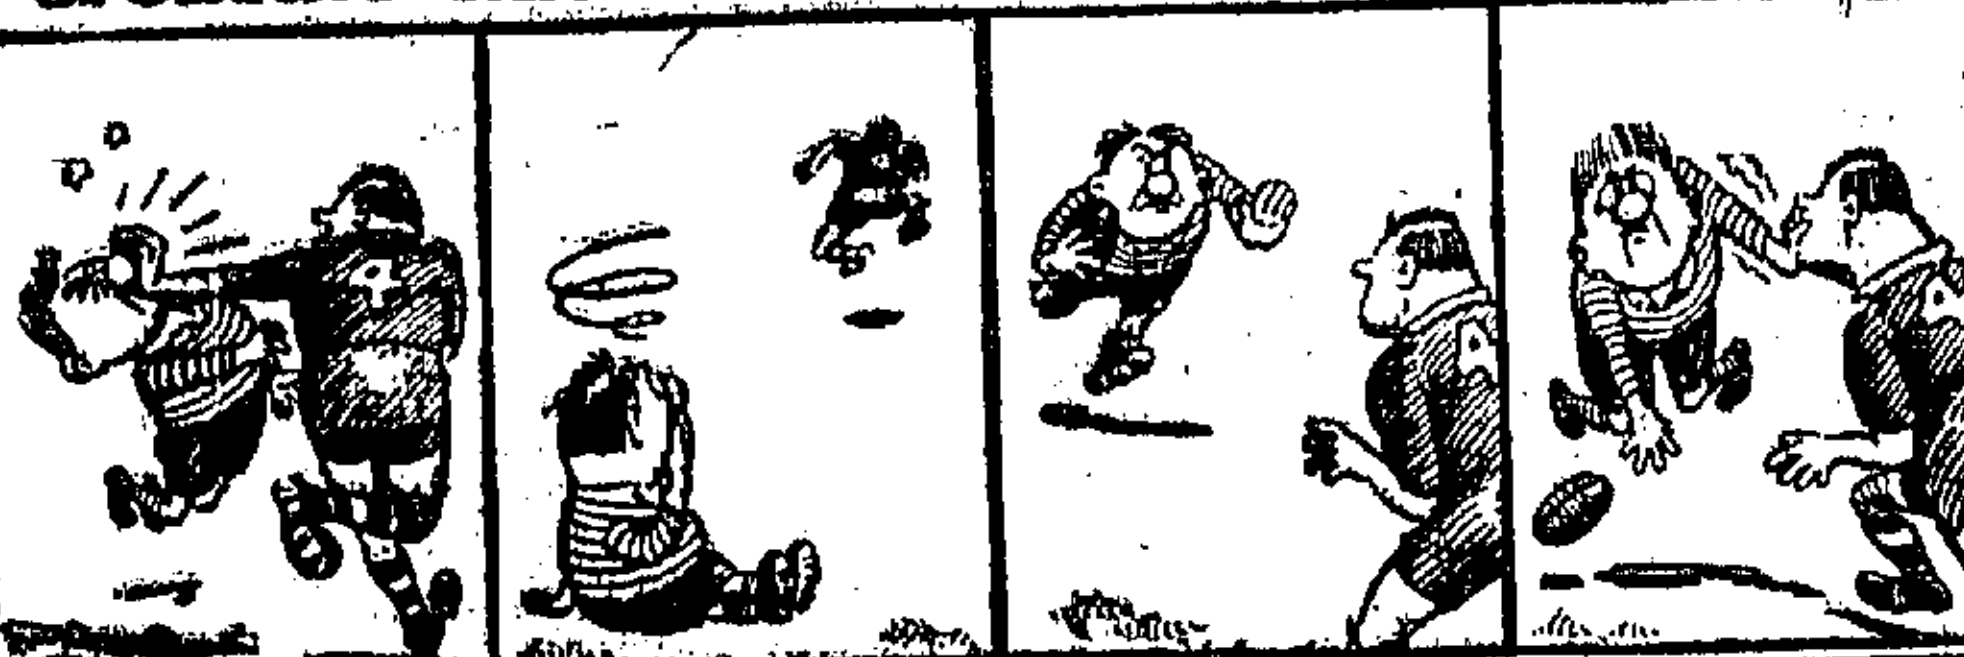

There was no further scoring until the final whistle.

Macao Combination Evens

Up The Score With

The Hongkong All-Stars

By "RECORDER"

The Macao Combination evened up the score with the Hongkong All-Stars in the annual Interport Hockey match yesterday—played at Club de Recreio, King's Park—with a 3-1 victory.

The score for the whole series, started in 1934, now stands at four victories for Hongkong, four for Macao, with four matches drawn. Hongkong leads on goal average by 18 goals to 16, and still holds the record for the biggest margin of victory, the 4-1 defeat of Macao in the Portuguese Colony last year. Three of Hongkong's victories were achieved at Macao, and three of Macao's at Hongkong.

His Excellency the Governor, Sir Alexander Grantham, GCMG, attended the Interport match and later presented the Spalding Cup to the Captain of the Macao team.

And who were the stars of yesterday's match? Willie Reed, Hongkong's captain and centre-half, who hasn't missed a match in the series, and Alexandre Almeida, Macao's pivot, whose record is almost as impressive.

The All-Stars have in the past beaten the Combination, but it was quite evident in yesterday's match that there wasn't quite enough combination in the Hongkong team to hold Macao.

The Macao team were smaller on average than their opposition and the game finally developed into a routine of nippy Macao forwards whirling around big stumbling blocks or into them.

When the collisions came there was much comment from every-where about rough play. Some Hongkong supporters thought the same about the local Danes running into the Macao goalposts.

Must be, because Hongkong's right-back, L. Nery. The official programme described him as "a robust and forceful player," which was true.

801 RUNS FOR 35 WICKETS AT CHATER ROAD

In a two-day Chinese New Year match played at Chater Road which produced 801 runs for the loss of 35 wickets and in which several good batting partnerships were recorded, the Hongkong Cricket Club drew with the Combined Services yesterday. Club finished 45 runs in arrears with their last wicket still intact.

Set 211 for victory, the Club had reached 166 for the loss of nine wickets when stumps were drawn at 5.45 p.m. Their second innings commenced at 3.45 after the Services had declared at 157 for six wickets at 8.30.

In their first lease of the wicket, the Combined Services rattled up 264, to which total Flight-Lieut. Wilson contributed 92 before he fell a leg-before victim to Rowe. However, Wilson was clean bowled by Weller for a "duck" in his second knock.

Topping all performances, though, was undoubtedly the bowling feat of AC Bennion, of the RAF, who claimed three Club second innings wickets in four overs without giving a single run away.

Big partnerships during the match were:

Combined Services 1st Innings:
Buckley and Wilson 97 for the 6th wicket; Wilson and Goldsworthy 70 for the 7th;
Hongkong CC 1st Innings:
Rory Macpherson and George Rowe 73 for the 6th wicket (scored in 29 minutes); 2nd Innings: Rowe and Macpherson 58 for 4th wicket; (scored in 28 minutes); Rowe and Pritchard 52 for 6th wicket.

Home Soccer Review

FIRST & SECOND DIVISION LEADERS BOTH BEATEN AT HOME AND DISPLACED

London, Jan. 26.

Portsmouth and Birmingham City, leaders of the First and Second Divisions in the English Football Leagues before today's matches, were both defeated at home and have been displaced.

Portsmouth went down to Sunderland by two clear goals and Manchester United, who beat the present champions, Tottenham Hotspur, by a similar margin, take over premier place on goal average.

Manchester United and Portsmouth both have 38 points from 29 games. Arsenal, with 37 points are still in third place.

Birmingham, who only took over top place in the Second Division last week, lost at home to Everton by the odd goal of three and thus enabled Cardiff City, who beat Southampton, to take over the leadership again.

Cardiff have 35 points from 28 games while Birmingham, who are second, have 34 points from 29 matches.

Three clubs — Wednesday, Leicester City and Nottingham Forest — each with 33 points, come next in the table.

The leaderships in the two Third Division tables remain unchanged. Plymouth Argyle were successful today at Bristol Rovers and lead the Southern section with 44 points from 29 games while Brighton and Hove Albion remain second with 40 points from the same number of matches.

SETTING THE PACE

Lincoln City are setting the pace at the top of the Northern section. Their victory over Gateshead takes them into a three-point lead over Stockport County. Lincoln have 42 points from 29 games while Stockport have 39 from the same number of games.

Hand on the heels of Arsenal are Newcastle who visit Tottenham next week in what is regarded as the match of the round in the Cup.

Newcastle, who beat Blackpool in last year's final, gave Charlton such a trouncing in the show that the London club will be returning home with the news for Tottenham that Newcastle are at the peak of their form and that only the best Hotspur can produce will hold them next Saturday if they are in a similar mood.

Not all the excitement, however, was confined to matches affecting the clubs at the top. Another victory for Fulham — their second in succession — improved their chances of escaping relegation with Middlesbrough overcoming the bottom team, Huddersfield Town, and Stoke City gaining a point from Preston, while Chelsea's home defeat from Wolverhampton, was worrying for Stamford Bridge officials.

CHELSEA INCIDENT

Equally disturbing for the Chelsea authorities must have been the unpleasant scene which followed the goal by Hancock which decided the match.

First the Chelsea team made a strong but unavailing protest to the referee, Mr. B. A. E. Buckle, of Peterborough. Then a spectator ran onto the field and was escorted off by police and officials.

Play resumed after a delay of two minutes, but before long another spectator was on the pitch and once more the police took action.

Play became over-vigorous. The referee spoke to some players and at the finish more ugly incidents occurred.

The referee received a police escort from the field and in addition to being booed he appeared to have been hit by a spectator who struck at him.

The referee, under police protection after changing, left in a closed van.

With the battles for promotion and to avoid relegation growing even fiercer in the Second Division, only 13 points separate Cardiff at the top of the table from Hull City at the bottom.

SCOTTISH CUP

The first round of the Scottish Cup today provided few surprises and only one real upset — the home defeat of Partick Thistle by the "B" Division side, Hamilton Academicals. Hamilton shot an early goal and held onto their lead despite all Partick's efforts.

Snow and sleet prevented two of the ties being played and all the matches took place under difficult conditions, workers not clearing the snow in some instances until almost kick-off time. — Reuter.

C.G.H. ARNOLD PLAYS A GREAT GAME

Hongkong Rugby Tourists Draw With All-Kanto In Thrill-Packed Game

Tokyo, Jan. 27.

In a game packed with thrills, the Hongkong Rugby team drew with a Japanese All-Kanto selected team at Tokyo's Meiji Park today. The score was six points each.

The Japanese led six points to three in the first half and Hongkong revived in the second half to make the only score of three points for a try.

Twenty-five thousand people, including hundreds of foreigners, watched the game, which was played in ideal conditions, with brilliant sunshine adding a little warmth to the winter chill. The ground was dry and springy.

The game was a see-saw battle throughout, but the Japanese slightly dominated the play in the first half.

Using their skillful, executed ladder system, they time and again broke through the Hongkong defence. The Japanese scored first with a penalty goal in the 22nd minute from about 35 yards.

The Japanese umpire called for a penalty kick, which was sent home for a penalty goal.

ARNOLD'S TRY

Then Hongkong rallied and C. G. H. Arnold, the half-back, took a pass and dribbled through for 30 yards.

Successive waves of Japanese tacklers failed to stop him making a try. J. F. Thomas took the kick but missed by being too low. The ball scooted low over the ground at about the head height, giving Hongkong only three points.

The vigorous Japanese three-quarter Y. Aoki, made the next

COLONY LOSE THIRD GAME

Tokyo, Jan. 28.

Blood flowed freely here today as an All-Japan Foreigners XV defeated the visiting Hongkong Rugby side 13 to 5 in a hard-fought game.

One player from each side had to leave the field. At least six from each side had a bloodied nose at some time. Many had shoulder, back and leg injuries, but were able to continue playing.

The All-Japan foreigners scored their 13 points in the first half, while Hongkong's five came in the second when C. G. H. Arnold and C. G. H. Arnold scored and converted.

Great Britain & Portugal Reach The Final Of The International Series

By "GRANDSTAND"

A large crowd of ball fans, which overflowed from the Grandstand until every vantage point on the surrounding hillside was occupied, saw Great Britain eliminate China by the odd run in three to qualify for the finals of the International Series against Portugal who subdued Canada's first attempt in the field of international softball.

Macao was successful in their tussles against local Junior Leaguers and made a clean sweep of the two-game series when they overwhelmed the Rexes 12-8 on Sunday and subdued the All-Stars by 7-5 when Chacha Leigh belted out a grand slam homer with the bases loaded in the sixth inning.

In the Senior League games, the Saints accounted for the Braves 7-4 to keep pace with the leading Jaguars while the US Navy practically assured themselves of the "B" Division title when they shutout the Warriors 7-0 behind Billings' no-hit performance.

Great Britain 2 — China 1
In a fast-moving display of diamond artistry, Great Britain shaded China by the odd run in three, having chalked up their first marker in the initial chapter when George Saunders poked out a two-base hit to right field following by a sizzling grounder off Dave Leonard's willow.

China made an attempt to nullify the lead in the second semester when they had the sacks fully populated, but Lee Pun-hong failed to come through with the clutch hit and the effort died out.

Jack Brown and P. C. Wong on the mound duelled for the next three stanzas with neither side scoring, although George Saunders poked out another three-bagger only to be left stranded.

The next run was registered in the fifth frame when Gerry van Langenberg received a lift on a fumble and was chased home when Les Castro slashed out a safe hit after Moss had sacrificed Langenberg into scoring position.

China reduced the lead in the sixth when Y. Y. Leung beat out a bunt hit and after he was advanced into scoring position on a sacrifice by C. M. Tsang, a wild throw nudged him across the payoff station.

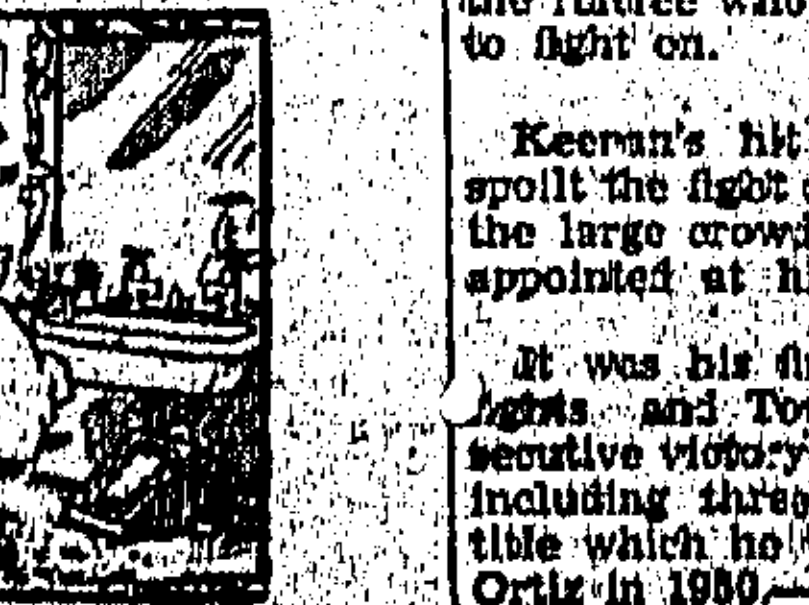

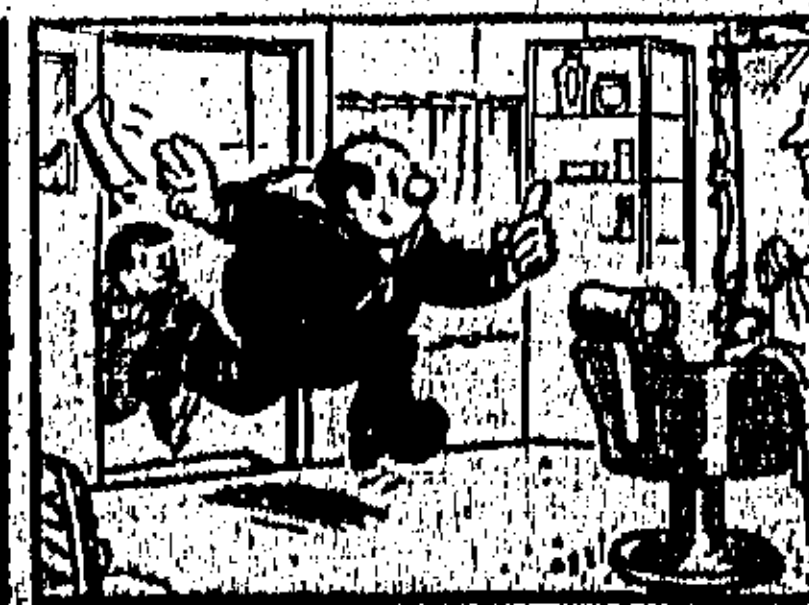

With Chinese fans howling themselves hoarse for the tieing run in the final chapter, Peter Ho drew a walk after C. Y. Lu had grounded out. A wild throw by catcher Buster Wade found Ho perched on second base while Wally Ma made first base on a fumble.

With a hit required to break up the ballgame, Coach K. K. Sit drew a walk after C. Y. Lu had grounded out. A wild throw by catcher Buster Wade found Ho perched on second base while Wally Ma made first base on a fumble.

Just before the end of the first half three-quarter, back, Yoshiaki Aoki, fell on a punt across the foul line to score a try. The attempt for goal failed.

In the 17th minute of the second half forward W. G. Minto tied the score at 6-6 when he dribbled across the goal line and seized the ball. Thomas failed to convert.

The forwards, Thomas and W. H. Crafter, again starred for the Hongkong side.

Vic Towel Retains Bantamweight Title On Points

Johannesburg, Jan. 26.

Vic Towel, South Africa's holder of the World Bantamweight Championship, retained his title at the Rand Stadium here tonight when he outpointed Peter Keenan (Scotland), the British and European Champion, over 15 rounds.

It was not a great fight. In fact, it never attained the class of champions. Few really strong blows were struck, fever, in fact, than the number of times the referee had to call "break away" to the fighters.

Keenan was, perhaps, the chief offender: for he seemed determined throughout to persist in close fighting and clinching in order to keep out of trouble. He was not successful and at the end of the fight blood was streaming from his nose and his left eye was puffed and swollen.

No real knock-downs occurred though Keenan took short counts of one and two and on another occasion was pushed back Keenan's head in a clinch. Once he landed to the stomach and Keenan appealed to the referee who ordered the men to fight on.

Keenan's hit and run tactics spoilt the fight as a spectacle and the large crowd was greatly disappointed at his performance.

It was his first defeat in 32 fights and Towel's 22nd consecutive victory as a professional, including three defenses of the title which he won from Manuel Ortiz in 1950. — Reuter.

AUSTRALIANS ARRANGE A COMPLEX PROGRAMME FOR THE ROYAL TOUR

HINDUSTANI PLAY AT Y. M. C. A.

A capacity audience at the European Y.M.C.A. West Lounge on Sunday evening witnessed the presentation of a Hindustani play, "Revenge" by the Indian Dramatic Group of the Nav Bharat to mark the 2nd Anniversary of the Republic of India.

The play, lasting for two and a half hours, was written by Mr Jagdish Verma, who also acted one of the major roles. The settings, costumes and music were arranged by Mr Pritham Singh and Mr G. Bhagwan.

The play was the first of its kind to be presented in the Colony.

The action begins in the abode of Lord Shiva, a legendary figure in Hindu lore, with his disciples asking him to let them see what went on amongst mortal men. They chose a particular Indian family and followed the fortunes of a youth called Ramesh (Mr Jagdish Verma), who had failed in some important examinations. Treated with scorn and contempt by his family, Ramesh left home after trying begging and singing in the streets he turned to crime and became possessed with a passion for revenge. The play pointed out how lust for revenge was a bad thing because at the end no one was better off. The youth himself ended up as a lunatic.

The moral of the story was that if the family at the beginning had shown sympathy and compassion towards the youth, all the trouble would have been prevented.

Congressmen On Way Home

P. I. Congressman Adilano Cincio and Antonio Raquiza and Maj-Gen Guillermo Francisco (retired) arrived from Formosa by Philippines Air Force plane yesterday. The Congressmen are members of the original seven-man P. I. Congressional team which recently visited the Filipino troops in Korea. The team also paid goodwill visits to Japan and Formosa.

General Francisco, technical adviser to President Quirino, visited the P. I. troops on behalf of the President.

Representative Cincio said that the Filipino troops in Korea were in high morale. Their performance had been praised by General Ridgway. The three are due to fly to Manila today.

CONFERENCE IN HANOI

Hanoi, Jan. 27.

M. Jean Lebourgeois, French Minister for the Associated States of Indo-China, today had a long talk with four-star General Raoul Salan, Acting Commander of the French Union forces in Indo-China, on the progress of the war.

Special attention was given to the Vietnamese pressure on the Tonkin Delta and increased Chinese material aid to the rebels across the northern frontier.

They are also understood to have discussed defence against possible foreign aggression and progress in building up a 120,000-strong Vietnamese army.

Formosan Tremors

Taipei, Jan. 27.

The weather bureau in Hualien, southern Formosa, yesterday again reported a series of brief quakes. The seismograph there recorded one tremor of grade one and another of grade three, and seven others were felt in 12 hours. No damage was reported.

—United Press.

Melbourne, Jan. 28.

When Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh land at Fremantle in Western Australia on March 1, they will embark on a tour far more complex and tiring than anything that has been planned for the King and Queen.

In the two calendar months before they embark again in the liner Gothic at Townsville, in tropical Queensland, they will travel through the six States of the Commonwealth of Australia and the Capital Territory.

During their trip, they will meet many changes of climate and scenery and use many different types of transport.

The bare programme for the tour, issued by Lieutenant-General F. H. Berryman, Director-General of the Royal Visit, consists of 37 foolscap pages. It plots the movements of the Royal party to within time limits of one quarter of an hour.

Here are a few sidelights on the people and machines which will help to make the Tour a success:

It will take 96 men and six officers of the Royal Tour Car Company to drive the Royal party and keep the Royal car in trim.

In the fleet are 17 Daimlers, 16 Humbers, six Holdens and two vans for Royal luggage.

The Commanding Officer, Major G. T. F. "Joe" Richardson, said recently that members of the Company—all Australian Army personnel—had been chosen "as a reward for careers of fine soldiering, expert driving ability and outstanding personal characteristics."

His own share of "fine soldiering" took him through the Italian campaign with the Eighth Army and the South-West Pacific campaign with the Armoured Division.

Drivers are being coached in what to say and what not to say to the Royal visitors, as well as in their duties at the wheel of the Royal car.

They must sit in a modified "attention" position, with hands in the ten past ten position of a clock-face. They have been drilled in the etiquette which insists on their silence except in answer to direct questions from the Royal visitors.

If there is tyre or engine trouble, drivers must curb their natural impulse to demonstrate their mechanical skill—until the Royal passengers have been transferred to another car. Until merely pull in to the kerb—and remain silent.

BY AIR TOO

All orders will be transmitted by an enquiry seated next to the driver. The enquiry will receive the orders from Princess Elizabeth or Prince Philip over an inter-communicating telephone.

The Royal couple will travel 2,500 miles by road and the car fleet will be divided into two parts, one of which will be assembled at the next city on the route before the Royal party reaches it.

On many of the longer journeys, however, as well as on a number of shorter ones, the party will travel by air.

At Parafield, in South Australia, teams of workmen are converting a DC-3 aircraft for the use of the Princess and the Duke. The Dakota will have a front compartment for the private use of the Royal couple and two other people. Adjoining this, there will be a powder room for the Princess, with a full-length mirror, a wardrobe and a hand basin.

There will also be room for four other members of the party.

The plane will be insulated against noise and, in the words of an official announcement, "decorated in keeping with its Royal use."

Other planes are also being prepared at Parafield, including some for Royal Australian Air Force servicing crews, one for attendants of the Royal party and a spare one.

SPECIAL TRAIN

Train journeys are being kept to a minimum, partly to avoid the discomfort of changes at State boundaries necessitated by the different gauges in use. Some of the Victorian country centres, however, will be visited by rail, and in New South Wales, the Royal party will make several journeys in the special Royal train which was being prepared for the King's projected visit.

The Royal Train has cost the New South Wales State Government A£170,000 (£130,000 sterling). It has 14 coaches, including those now used by the Governor-General, the State Governor and the State Premier. Air-conditioned and luxuriously appointed, it will take the Royal party from Sydney to Newcastle and later from Sydney to Goulburn.

A special yacht is being built at Brisbane to take the Royal party from the Queensland coast to explore the wonders of the Great Barrier Reef. It is described as "28 feet long and like a naval pocket boat."

After the Royal couple have seen the strange coral formations and marine life of the Reef through its glass bottom, it will be used by the State Government as a pilot boat.

True to the standard of comfort being maintained for all forms of Royal travel, the yacht's cabin will be equipped with carpets, upholstered armchairs and every other comfort aimed at lightening the strain of travelling through so many of Australia's 3,000,000 square miles of land in so short a time.

EUROPEAN OFFICERS IN COURT

Sidney Ernest Bruce Harris, 29, master of the motor vessel Tak Shing, and Robert David Anderson, 23, Chief Officer of the vessel, were charged before Mr Oswald V. Cheung at Kowloon yesterday with various counts of wanton discharge of firearms and assault.

They were remanded for three days for further enquiries.

Harris was alleged to have wantonly discharged a pistol and a revolver on board the Tak Shing at international waters on January 27.

He was also alleged to have assaulted Clement Ambrose on board by pointing a revolver at him.

Owen was alleged to have wantonly discharged a revolver on board the ship.

They were on bail of $100 each.

Evaded Payment

Ngau Shu-ja, 28, who produced a monthly ticket belonging to a woman when asked to purchase a ticket on board a bus on Saturday, was fined $40 by Mr Oswald Cheung at Kowloon yesterday for evading payment.

The Firecracker Menace: Long List Of Offenders

Fines ranging from $5 to $25 were imposed by Mr Oswald V. Cheung on 105 persons at Kowloon yesterday on various charges of unauthorised discharge of firecrackers, and discharging firecrackers negligently to the danger of the public.

In the Juvenile Court fines of $10 each were imposed on 38 boys for negligent discharge of firecrackers.

DEATH OF ENGINEER OFFICER

A popular Merchant Marine officer passed away suddenly at the Queen Mary Hospital on Saturday in the person of Mr A. Murray Scott, a chief engineer officer, who had served in many vessels on the China Coast for many years.

Mr Murray Scott was a delightful character, as the "old hands" acknowledge. He had a most acceptable sense of paw-kish, Scottish humour.

His sudden death will come as a shock to a great many officers who knew him so well, and there are residents in this Colony who more than respect the deceased because he had, with a jealous regard for the other men's feelings, befriended colleagues who knew the gnawing pangs of hunger or the horror of empty pocket-books.

Mr Murray Scott was an officer who practised Christianity. He helped the afflicted, and that silently. Many mourn his death, for many are now denied the comforting solace of a good friend.

The funeral service will take place at the Mission Chapel, Seamen's Institute, at 2.15 p.m. tomorrow and the interment at the Colonial Cemetery at 3 p.m. the same day.

Arrivals From Australia

The ss Changtse arrived here late on Saturday evening from Australian ports via Manila with a few passengers for Hong Kong and a larger group of transients bound for Japan.

Among those disembarking here on Sunday morning were Mr E. C. Ramsey, Mr J. G. Robertson, Mrs L. M. Robertson, Miss K. M. M. Nettleship, Mrs N. V. Boes, Mr R. J. Hayward, Mrs J. M. Hayward and Miss J. Hayward.

Japan-bound passengers include Mr Thomas A. Rodda, a United Nations official, Miss Chaman V. Trull, Recreation Director, U.S. Army, Rev C. T. Hally, Mrs H. Brooks, Mr H. E. Denney and Mr J. S. Redwood.

Hawkers Cautions

Seventy-three unlicensed hawkers who sold vegetables on Chinese New Year's Eve in Kowloon, were all cautioned by Mr Oswald Cheung at Kowloon yesterday. Twenty-four of them were juveniles.

Living Language

Why we say Delirious.

Until recently the English word was "delirious" which had direct descent from the Latin "delirus," crazy. But "delirus" itself had an interesting history for it was made of two words "de" away or from, and "lira" a furrow. Any one who departed from the straight furrow of normal behaviour thus came to be described as "delirus"—delirious.

Stole Lucky Packets

For stealing two "lautre" (red paper packets) each containing $10 from the handbag of a woman, Pui Ying-wah, 24, unemployed, native of Shanghai, was sentenced to three months by Mr Hin-shing Lo at Central yesterday.

Defendant, who entered a plea of guilty to the charge, said the handbag being open he could not resist the temptation.

He also told the Court that he had recently come from Shanghai and was intending to go to Taiwan to join his father who was working under the Nationalists.

Shortly before midnight on Chinese New Year's Day, defendant stole the packets from the handbag of Lok Sau-ting, who was waiting for a bus in King's Road. Two Police officers who saw the action arrested defendant on the spot.
